New Environmental Education Resource

The Roger Tory Peterson Institute of Natural History announces a new, free environmental education resource. The Electronic Naturalist (EN) is an environmental education website available for students, teachers, and the public.

EN addresses a wide assortment of concepts dealing with animals and plants across North America and even provides access to professional naturalists via email.

Please take a moment to look at our site <http://www.enaturalist.org>. We hope you find it a valuable source of material for your organization, your staff and students.

The Pennsylvania Biodiversity Listserve encourages open discussion about biodiversity issues in the state. It is hosted by the Allegheny Institute of Natural History, University of Pittsburgh-Bradford and is moderated by the Pennsylvania Biodiversity Partnership. The opinions expressed in messages are those of the authors and NOT the Pennsylvania Biodiversity Partnership.
