You are cordially invited to attend the

Ursinus College
Focus the Nation Conference, A Critical Think-In About Climate Change
Wednesday, Jan. 30th - Saturday, Feb. 2nd, 2008

Our four-day Focus the Nation event will feature energy demonstrations, tours of solar and alternate energy homes, local and regional conservation organizations, an art competition, children's activities, two sustainability-minded banquets, and many speakers including

- * Richard Alley and Henry Pollack, members of the Nobel Peace Prize-winning Intergovernmental Panel on Climate Change
- * Andrew Revkin, senior environmental correspondent for the New York Times
- * Heidi Cullen, host of The Weather Channel's weekly climate report, "Forecast Earth"
- * Richard Kerr, senior geosciences correspondent for the journal Science
- * Judy Wicks, co-founder and co-chair of the Business Alliance for Local Living Economies and owner and founder of Philadelphia's White Dog Cafe
- * Joe Kruger, policy director for the National Commission on Energy Policy
- * Artist and activist Sara Steele
- * Brian Hill, president of the Pennsylvania Environmental Council
- * Environmental ethicist Dale Jamieson
- * and many others!!!

Plus a closing concert featuring renowned musician Dar Williams!

And it's all FREE - a public service provided to the community by Ursinus College!

To register, please visit our web site: <http://academic.ursinus.edu/ftn/>.

Questions about our conference? If the web site doesn't answer 'em, e-mail ftn@ursinus.edu.
